FLOORING THAT MAKES A LASTING IMPRESSION.

WALO's NATURO line is made from natural materials and promises a high degree of creative freedom and a carefully considered lifecycle. The high quality flooring is ideally suited to sophisticated architectural designs, public buildings and industrial and commercial properties. Depending on the system, surfaces can be refreshed or regenerated. This extends the longevity of the materials and conserves resources.

A line to suit a wide range of requirements.

The NATURO line comprises seven flooring systems made from natural resources – from mineral- to cork-based solutions. A variety of finishes, colours and textures offer a diverse range of design options and meet high requirements in terms of functionality, efficiency and design.

NATURALLY SUSTAINABLE

Longevity pays off.

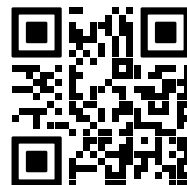

NATURO flooring is designed to stand the test of time – up to 25 years, in fact. NATUROFLEX®, NATUROSTELLA® and NATUROPINTA® are particularly sustainable: their surfaces can be regenerated without having to replace the entire floor. This reduces material consumption, build time and disruption to day-to-day operations, and boosts efficiency throughout the whole lifecycle.

Taking the circular economy to the next level.

Under the WALO take-back scheme, NATURO flooring is collected at the end of its useful life and sent for material recycling. This ensures that precious raw materials remain in the material cycle and can be reused as base materials for new products or in substructures – an important contribution to a resource-conserving lifecycle.

Having clear take-back terms in place ensures transparency and planning certainty throughout the flooring's entire lifecycle. This concept is complemented by Walo Bertschinger AG's ISO 14001-certified environmental management system and the Ecopunkt certification of the relevant NATURO flooring.
